Ringkasan

I am a Business Data Analyst focused on translating data into measurable business impact. My work centers around analyzing performance trends, identifying growth opportunities, and supporting data-driven decision-making across commercial and operational functions. I work extensively with SQL, Tableau, Power BI, and Python to structure raw data, build analytical models, and create dashboards that help stakeholders understand revenue performance, operational efficiency, and key business drivers. I am particularly interested in roles where analytics supports strategic decisions, performance optimization, and scalable growth.
